

Website Promotes Cyber Safety

A new website is now available to help educate students and their parents about safe uses of the Internet and the need for cyber safety.

The Florida Association of District School Superintendents has joined Attorney General Bill McCollum in promoting the www.safeflorida.net/safesurf webpage to introduce all school age children to resources available to keep them safer while online.

The site includes links to age-appropriate websites, including games for elementary students, a place for teens to share their online experiences and information and tips to help parents learn the basic rules of Internet safety.
